[The following details, translated for this Gazette, from a late number of the Journal de Soir, a Paris paper must be extremely interesting to the political reader, as exhibiting a view of the territorial extent, the population and resources of one of the "substantive powers" of Europe, a power which seems for a time to have been broken down by the overbearing genius of Bonaparte, but which from its physical strength, must again rise to its wanted rank in the scale of nations.]

The possessions of the house of Austria do not constitute like those of France and Spain, one of those immutable divisions of the globe, where the aim of the politician is, simply to maintain the unity previously settled by the decrees of nature. We may consider the Austrian empire as naturally divided into five grand sections. The circle of Austria, with the country of Indemnity, occupies a space of 6000 square leagues, of 25 to the degree, inhabited by 4,600,000 souls. The kingdom of Bohemia including Moravia and Austrian Silesia, composes the second section of the great empire. Its superficies have been estimated at 5,900 square leagues, and the number of inhabitants which to these provinces is continually multiplying, exceeds 4,700,000. Galicia, more properly Gallitia, compre-

The great diversity of origin, language, and interests, among the people of these states is a still further check upon their political importance. We can scarcely count 7,000,000 of native Germans, whilst those nations of Slavonic origin, as the Bohemians, the Poles, and the Slavonians of Hungary, form a total of more than 12,000,000. The native Hungarians to the number of 3,000,000, have not the slightest resemblance to their neighbors. They are descended, not from the Huns, but from a race of Finlanders, the same people who formerly occupied the north & north eastern extremities of Russia. The Wallachians too, the Venetians and other nations, less numerous, preserve each their peculiar idioms, their manners, their annals of national glory and local interests: add to this no two provinces are under the same political regulations. In the province of Transylvania alone there are 3 different forms of government. The nobles of Hungary have from time immemorial affected republican aristocracy. The Tyrolese, & this they owe in part to their position, as well as to their courage, still preserve some semiblance of a democracy. Neither the Venetians nor the Bohemians have forgotten their ancient prerogatives, though diminished by the jealous policy of Austria, that very policy which has left with the Poles a faint image of his Diet. Thus the empire of Austria is, strictly speaking a federative monarchy. Joseph the 2d felt very sensibly the inconveniences arising from such a dispersion of force & interest; but his impetuosity hurried him into measures at once violent & ill-conducted; he struck at the very root of all old prejudices; he galled the consciences of his subjects, —

The slow and imperceptible action of ages can alone wear away those prominent traits of character which at present distinguish the spirited Hungarian from the cautious and phlegmatic German, or the superstitious and savage Wallachian from the industrious and ingenious inhabitant of Bohemia: time alone can accustom the brave Polisher and the haughty Venetian to a foreign domination, however mild and politic it may be.

For some years past, the Poles and Hungarians have redoubled their efforts and zeal to enrich and preserve, and bring their languages to the nearest possible degree of perfection. It is only in Bohemia and Moravia that the German language has hitherto spread. But we have dwelt long enough upon the imbecility of the Austrians; let us now turn our eyes to the brilliant tablet of her territorial wealth.

The soil of Austria Proper, is much more favorable to the cultivation of the vine than of corn. It yields many kinds of salts, but not of the finest crystallization.

Syria furnished the Romans in ancient times with iron; and yet its mines seem inexhaustible. The lead of Carinthia is of an excellent quality, and the quick silver mine in Idria is unrivalled. In the Tyrol and in Salzburg there are enormous masses of sal gemma stretching along the line of the northern half of these majestic Alps, which here rise to a height little below that of Mount Blanc*. Mountains and islands seem throughout the world to be the native seats of courage, strength and activity.—The minds of men in such situations are much more bold and daring, and their bodies are of a robuster make. With the assistance of a rope ladder the Tyrolese will often scale the most tremendous precipices—he breaks up the little patches of land on the cragged cliffs, and covers them with luxuriant herbage, though it be enveloped in eternal snows. But the labors of the hardy Tyrolese will never vanquish a soil inimical to culture. Yet he is never discouraged. He knows how to extract aromatic waters from some Alpine plants, and with a few marmots which he has accustomed to a state of captivity (such are his simple treasures) he travels all Germany, vending little Italian gew-gaws, and returns to his humble shed considerably enriched.

They are even now endeavoring to render the river Kulpa navigable ; this stream falls into the Save, and has its source only six leagues distant from the Gulph of Quarnero.

So rich a soil, assisted by the genial influence of a mild and humid atmosphere, yields an almost spontaneous vegetation. Here vast herds, of oxen with horns of enormous size, range majestically over plains, bounded only by the horizon; there thousands of horses bound upon the distant hills and snuff the invigorating breeze. Through luxurious fields of corn and maize, are interspersed orchards of figs, of almonds, of plumbs, and of chestnuts.

There is not a single province under the dominion of Austria that is destitute of natural riches. Even the cold and rugged Gallicia may boast of her noble herds, her luxuriant fields of wheat and rye, but especially of her salt mines, situated near Bothnia and Wielizka; they are too well known to require any thing but a bare mention.—

The opening of several mines of iron, and felling of wood, as well as the breeding of sheep, may hereafter prove sources of wealth to this province. But the principal natural outlets of this country are under a foreign government.

Hungary is similarly circumstanced with regard to the Danube, as is Bohemia to the Elbe. So that after all her acquisitions and extension of territory, Austria is still cramped and fettered in every direction, because she has no invulnerable side.

Let any one take a view of the military frontiers of the Austrian empire, and he will be made sensible of the inefficacy of her system of aggrandizement. Galicia, within her present limits, has not one natural barrier. If the Austrian armies should be called out to defend this country, every thing must be committed to their courage; in case of a defeat, their only safe retreat would be the Carpathian mountains. Bohemia is secure at present from a sudden invasion. Prague is covered by the forests of Egra, of Theresiensdat, of Plessy and of Olmutz. The Tyrol is another rampart for Austria. That and Bohemia form two bastions, which the nature of things require to be connected by the famous line of the Inn, of which Austria has yet not obtained the cession. These fortifications are already erected in the territory formerly belonging to Venice; but considering the partition of Dalmatia, and drawing a line from the mouth of the Cattaro towards Orsova and Belgrade, we may easily conceive how infinitely important it must be to Austria to have her views accomplished.

It is supposed that Austria maintains in time of peace an army of 280,000 fighting men; of which 240,000 are regular infantry, 50,000 are cavalry, 12,000 artillery, and 70,000 militia stationed along the frontiers with other irregular troops. The Hungarians and Polish cavalry are the finest in the world. The Tyrolese are formidable marksmen, and the Austrians, after a seven years terrible apprenticeship to the art of war, are ranked among the finest soldiers of Europe. The disasters of their armies are to be attributed entirely to the baneful influence of the Aulic military council, which the wisdom of the archduke Charles has of late confined within a narrow compass, but not entirely destroyed. Without permission from Vienna, their generals could not strike a blow. The want of information among the subalterns has been a subject of public reprehension with the great man above named; a prince who has obtained the glorious title of the restorer of the military discipline of his country.

The Austrian marine is yet to be created. M. de Lichtenstein asserts that in 1802, there were 24,000 national vessels in the ports of Austria, but we must have enumerated every little fishing boat. In the same manner the number of vessels arriving at Trieste in one year, has been swelled to 6600 or 7000. I believe there are about 500 vessels above 10 tons, the property of Austrian subjects. The establishment of a marine, without a coast many times more extended, would be a very difficult undertaking for Austria as well as Prussia, and after all of very doubtful utility.

The financial system of Austria has undergone and is every day undergoing so many new changes, that it would be impossible to say any thing of it with precision. It is said that the revenues of the state, which had been very much increased for the last four years, amount to 193,300,000 of florins of Vienna, (free of expences of collection) a sum equivalent to 507,000,000 of francs, reckoning the florin at its current value in Austria. But the course of exchange with other countries being very unfavorable to Austria, this sum would hardly represent 400,000,000. However the revenues of this empire are undoubtedly double those of Prussia, and a little less than those of France in 1789, according to the statement of Mr. Neckar.

September

On Sunday, schooner Patience, from Leghorn and Genoa, Captain Shillaber had the misfortune from that system of tyrannical oppression which seems now to have adopted the commerce of this country, to see no measures taken by the government to repress. On the 10th of June, 1835, he was boarded by a British brig, his Britannic majesty's sailing ship, of ten guns, commanded by Lieutenant Ockway. The officer called his people aboard, to see the papers, and the British officer pressed Peter Brant, once a subject of Sweden, and a sailor, to give him a regular clearance from a British officer, and then called his cook George Salem, who was a bound slave, whose indentures were shown to the British officer, who pretended they were not filled up, and that he had two persons, notwithstanding he could say, were taken from the schooner, and he inquired whether he meant to release them, to which he answered, no, whether he had not seen the papers. He replied that he had not seen the papers, but that he saw the person he found without papers, whether they are bound or free, and had indentures, the officer also told him, they said the fishermen they fell in with without protections; and he sent a number out of fishing boats, 5, lat. 35, 30, long. 19, and the brig Maria, of Boston, full of water, loaded with provisions on board.

BOSTON, Sept. 11. It was stated in yesterday's advices were received in Doane, who had lately a land, "That forty sail of had been recently condemned. This article having excited, we were induced Doane, and have been that the above statement correct: He merely stated previous to his leaving England on the 2d of August, informed him, that since April last upwards of forty sail of sent into the different ports that several of them had but that the principal part released, and again sailed on various pretensions. On a subject which interests so many of our most considerable merchants as the late order of the British government relative to our commerce. I am much surprised to find so little acuteness in the reflections and observations which it has produced. Following the confusion, inconsistency and absurd account of that order which was first published from the London papers—almost all who have taken any notice of the subject have strongly blended the export of colonial produce, to the mother country in the same bottom in which it was imported into the United States, with the whole mass of our general export trade of our colonial produce. It is palpable that the order relates to the former of these only. To suppose that the expressions in the former part of the London account are correct, is preposterous. What would become of the British manufacturers squandered

ANTED DAILY, BY NOW DEN.

BOSTON, September 18.

The substance of the treaty with Tripoli, is confirmed by Capt. Shillaber, arrived at Salem, from Leghorn. We think the force and courage of our squadron demanded a better one. But however bad it may be, it does not in the least depreciate the merit of our men, who have so richly merited. The Salem Gazette on the authority of direct intelligence says: "The impression made by the American arms in the Mediterranean, is flattering to our national pride, and is a just encomium upon that naval system which was adopted by the federal administration. Had not the treaty with Tripoli prevented, that city, invested both by sea and land, would probably have fallen before American valor. The name of PEARLE will long be remembered by the barbarians with respect. The bashaw of Tripoli is said to have expressed a strong desire, after the treaty, to see him; observing that he had been English, French and Spanish commander, but that his curiosity to see him was proportionally greater, as he had in his exploits exceeded them all."

We wish to detect an error generally received, that the United States have been in the habit of paying an annual tribute to Tripoli, which we are now rid of. The only agreement ever made between the United States and Tripoli, was that concluded November 4, 1796, during the Washington administration, by Mr. Joel Barlow, appointed by Col. Humphreys, then minister to Portugal, for the purpose. The tenth article of that treaty is as follows:

ARTICLE X.

"The money and presents demanded by the Bey of Tripoli, as full and satisfactory consideration on his part and on the part of his subjects, for this treaty of perpetual peace and friendship, are acknowledged to have been received by him previous to his signing the same, according to the receipt which is hereto annexed, except such part as is promised on the part of the United States, to be delivered and paid by them on the arrival of their consul in Tripoli, of which part a note is likewise hereto annexed. And no pretence of any periodical or further payment is ever to be made by either party."

We have been thus particular because it has been falsely asserted in some of the democratic papers, that Mr. Adams wasted the public revenue, by annual tribute to Tripoli, when he had a fleet which could protect commerce without tribute.

WASHINGTON CITY, September 23.

Dinner to captain Bainbridge given by the citizens of Washington.

By three o'clock the company had collected and at half past three the dinner was served up. Captain Tingey and Colonel Wharton having been previously chosen President and Vice President for the day. Captain Bainbridge was handed by the officers appointed to the seat at the right end of the chair; and captain James Barron to that on the left. The other officers present and the citizens of Washington took their seats as convenient, and without distinction.

After dinner the following toasts were drunk, accompanied by music from the Marine corps, and the elegant Italian band arrived in the frigate President.

1. The President of the United States.

Air: Jefferson's march.

2. The Vice President of the United States.

Patriotic Air.

3. The heads of departments.

Hail Columbia.

4. The Navy of the United States: Small in appearance, but great in execution.

Yankee Doodle.

5. Commodore Samuel Barron: Restoration of his health to him: May he enjoy the congratulations of his countrymen, and long live to face our foes and compel honorable peace.

Patriotic Air.

6. Men in captivity: May they never want generous friends who would die to free them.

Air: The Galley Slave.

Commodore Rodgers and the officers of the Mediterranean squadron.

Air: Patriotic.

35. Captivity Triumphant: May the remembrance of past sufferings be lost in the voice of the nation.

Commodore Rodgers and the officers of the company in the name of him- officers, on which the company cheered.

Air: The sweet little cherub that sits up aloft, to take care of the life of poor Jack.

For of poor Jack.

For of poor Jack.

9. Captain Eaton: The man who had the abilities to plan, the perseverance to promote, and fortitude to establish the fame of the American character, in a land where it was scarcely known, in defiance of slavery or death.

Air: The Battle.

10. May the powers of Barbary henceforward learn, as all Europe knew before, that the threat of chains to Americans only inflames to victory.

Air: The sons of Alknemack.

11. Lieutenant O'Bannon of the Marines, and Midshipman Mann: The heroes who first planted the American banners on the walls of Derne.

Song and Air: Hearts of Oak.

12. Consul Nelson (of Denmark) and Cidi Hamet Degese (of Tripoli): The foreigners, who like the good Samaritan, owns every man in distress his neighbor.

Air: Charity.

13. May we never lose a ship but in chase of the enemy.

Patriotic Air.

14. Colonel Lear: The patriotic pacificator, who effected an honorable peace with Tripoli.

Music.

15. Mediterranean Laurels: May America never want such hands to gather, nor such heads to wear them.

Patriotic Air.

16. The Bashaw of Tripoli: May he profit by the lectures he has received on the Laws of Nations.

Oh dear what can the matter be!

17. No chains but those of Love: No captivity but to the American Fair.

With women and wine we defy every care.

The highest social order prevailed, and benignity dwelt upon every countenance. Several patriotic & other appropriate songs were interspersed with the toasts, and the company broke up at an early hour.

Alexandria Daily Advertiser.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27.

Extract of a letter from a master of a vessel to his owners in Portland, dated Antwerp, July 12, 1805.

"Gregory, residing at Corunna, who has made interest to be appointed deputy American consul there, from many corroborating circumstances, it appears, has entered into an association with the fishermen, to bring all the vessels they can that way, which causes an enormous expence, part of which it is evident he shares. In addition to which he makes unjust charges in his accounts. I therefore wish those who are bound to Antwerp, and are strangers, to be informed, not only of the above, but by all means to avoid the east side of Walchun Island, because the channel is difficult and dangerous, and vessels going that way, are subject to several days quarantine, after which they must proceed to Flushing to enter and obtain a pilot. The Flushing pilots are seldom out, and fishermen are not permitted to board vessels under a heavy penalty, so that should a stranger fall in with them, he must either follow them to Corunna, or keep the sea until a proper pilot offers."

Extract of a letter from a commercial house in the city of New York, to their correspondents in Albany, dated Sept. 11.

"The alarm of fever commenced suddenly in the neighborhood of our store [Pearl street]. The disease has generally been malignant, and in many cases of it remarkably so. Our Board of Health, a large majority of whom embrace the opinion of exclusive importation, deserve the reprobation of every good citizen. The mystery in which they wrapped the progress of this disease, and their unwarrantable obstinacy in resisting the reports and advice of some of our Physicians, who insisted on domestic origin, will tend greatly to destroy that confidence which ought to be placed in so respectable a body. The advanced period of the season had begotten a hope in the minds of most of our citizens, that we should pass through it without any alarm of consequence; and this hope was strengthened by the silence of our Board of Health, who, some weeks ago pledged themselves, to give timely notice in case of any occurrence unfavorable to the prospect of our health. This our importing gentlemen most shamefully neglected to do, and the consequence is that many have fallen a sacrifice to the fever who otherwise might possibly have been still living. Those who removed last week, either took the alarm from the number of sudden deaths in their neighborhood, or were advised to it by their physicians, who however, were deterred from making the alarm public by their respect for the Board of Health, from which body alone they conceived the public had a right to look for accurate information. Our valuable resident physician, Dr. E. Miller, has been wantonly and barbarously prosecuted for his opinion of domestic origin; but his opponents are sinking into oblivion, and the occurrences of this season will raise him greatly in the estimation of his fellow-citizens, who, being open to conviction, will see the truth of his doctrine, and it is hoped will appreciate it accordingly."

DANISH CONSUL'S OFFICE.

To prevent misapprehensions being entertained concerning the nature and execution of the new quarantine regulations within the Danish European dominions, which are established upon principles of facilitating commerce as much as possible, consistent with the end of any such regulation—the following limitations in regard to time, and specification of goods which are tho't liable to carry infection, are hereby made public:

1. Vessels coming from any country under suspicion of being afflicted with contagious disease, but having bills of health in perfect order, no dangerous goods, nor any sick at the time, or during the passage, and no recent communication with vessels from the Barbary coast, will have to perform a quarantine observation for four days.

2. Vessels under similar circumstances, but coming from an infected place, consequently without bill of health—14 days.

3. A vessel having a few dangerous goods on board, such as can be aired & purified on board without unloading the cargo, coming from an infected place: 40 days.

4. Such a vessel, having many dangerous goods from an infected place, or having actual contagion or pestilential diseases on board, must proceed to Christiansand in Norway, there unload within the limits of the quarantine ground, and undergo the prescribed purifications during 40 days or longer, according to circumstances, where also such goods as are of a nature to carry infection will in this case be burned.

5. Vessels without a cargo or in ballast, from an infected place (or having communication with a vessel from the Barbary coast) if 30 days have elapsed since and no sickness has appeared, will perform a quarantine of 4 days, or as many more as they may be deficient in the stated 30 days. The following goods are considered as dangerous or liable to carry infection, viz:

Wool, cotton, silk, hair, feathers, quills, down, flax, hemp, straw, sponge, and all the articles manufactured thereof; paper, books, and cordage, which is untarred &c.

Further, hides, skins, peltry, leather, parchment and all that is manufactured or composed of these materials.

Further, such animals as are clothed with wool, hair, bristles, or feathers as also their horns and bones in a raw state.

Also, Cochenille, rasped dye woods, and coins of every kind.

Not dangerous are estimated,

1. Grains of all kinds, viz.

Wheat, buck-wheat, rye, barley, oats, rice, corn, &c. pulse, peas, beans &c. and Whatever is prepared and composed from grain, viz.

Flour, groats, starch, bread, &c.

2. Beef, pork, fish of every preparation; also, butter, cheese, lard, honey, other like nutriments and tallow.

3. Fruits of all different kinds, also, cocoa, nuts, almonds &c.

Further, potatoes, roots, vegetables, &c.

4. Liquids, as water, oil, distilled liquors, and liquid preparations of different kinds.

5. Spices of all kinds, drugs, medicines, plants, tea, tobacco, &c. and every other article derived from plants, which has not already been excepted.

6. Wood and every thing derived or manufactured from it, except rasped dyewood, coals, ashes, gums, tar, rosin, &c.

7. China, poters ware, metals of all kinds (except coin), alum, vitriol, paints, brimstone, charcoal &c. &c.

When goods, not liable to carry infection, are packed in dangerous articles such as straw, then the whole is considered as dangerous until the package is separated from it.

HOUSE AND LOTS for Sale,

UPON POTOMACK;

Situated at the lower part, and within the limits of the town of Alexandria.

The house is built in the cottage style, calculated for the accommodation of a small family, but is planned as to admit of considerable enlargement without effecting its uniformity. The lot attached to the house is 63 feet fronting upon Water Street, (corner of Jefferson Street) running into the channel. More ground may be obtained if required.

In the same range, and to the southward of the above, are several Lots, similarly situated as to advantages and prospects, calculated for near small buildings. The whole or any part of the above property may be obtained by purchase upon reasonable terms, either in fee simple or under a light ground-rent. A clear title free from every incumbrance will be given upon the payment of the sum agreed for, and a liberal credit allowed if required. Mr. Yates, residing upon the shore, below Keith's wharf, and adjoining the premises, will show the property, and a line directed to Doctor Hamilton, post-office, Alexandria, will meet with immediate attention.

VALUABLE FAMILY MEDICINES.

Just received direct from the Patentees, and

FOR SALE BY

JAMES KENNEDY, JUN.

DRUGGIST;

The following Valuable Medicines:

Dr. Rawson's Anti-Bilious and Stomach Bitters.

PREPARED BY

THOMAS H. RAWSON,

Member of the Connecticut Medical Society.

THESE Bitters have undoubtedly had the most rapid sale of any Patent Medicine ever before discovered, and are justly appreciated for their singular and uncommon virtues for re- Spring weak and decayed constitutions, and all that train of complicated complaints so common in the spring and fall seasons, such as intermittent Fevers and Agues, long Autumnal Fevers, Dysenteries, &c. They are also a very pleasant bitter for common use, and where they are known they have taken the place and superseded the use of all other bitters in public houses as well as in private families.—Price 50 cents a box.

Dr. Lee's (Windham) Billious Pills. THE great sale and increasing demand for these valuable pills for these twelve years past, bespeak their intrinsic worth. They have proved singularly efficacious in Billious and Yellow Fevers, Jaundice, Head Aches, Dysenteries, Billious Cholera, Colic, &c. Female complaints, &c.

The very great demand and high esteem in which these pills are held throughout the United States and the West Indies, has induced many to counterfeit them; the purchaser is requested to observe that the name of Samuel Lee, jun. (the patentee) is affixed to each bill of directions, in his own hand writing, or they will not be genuine. Price 50 cents a box.

Dr. Rawson's Itch Ointment.

A certain and safe application for that disagreeable complaint called the ITCH. Price 42 cents a box.

Dr. Rawson's Anti Billious Pills, or, Family Physic.

The extraordinary celebrity these pills have gained, the universal demand for them and esteem in which they are held by medical men of the first eminence, are sufficient testimonials of their intrinsic worth. In great colds and sudden attacks of disorders, an early use of these pills often produces the happiest effects, and taken once in eight or ten days in cases of indigestion, headache, dizziness, pains in the stomach and bowels, dysenteries, diarrhoeas, dropsies, &c. and a liberal use of my anti billious bitters in the intermediate time has relieved patients almost to a miracle—price 25 cents a box.

Thompson's Aromatic Tooth Paste.

For the scum in the teeth and gums, and for whitening and preserving the teeth. It likewise takes off all disagreeable smells from the breath, which generally arises from scorbutic gums and bad teeth. This paste is much in use, and highly esteemed by all those who value the preservation of their teeth. It may be applied at all times with the greatest safety. It is neatly put up in pewter boxes with paper directions. Price 50 cents a box.

Dr. Rawson's Worm Powders.

A medicine which for efficacy and safety in its operation stands unrivalled. The most authenticated proofs and respectable authorities of its strengthening virtues, and purgative effects, in extreme and alarming cases of worms, may be seen at the place of sale. Price 50 cents a packet.

Dr. Cooley's Vegetable Elixir; Or Cough Drops.

Rich Kanahwa Bottom Lands, for Sale or Exchange.

THE subscriber offers for sale, or exchange, for lands or other real property on the east side of the Blue Ridge, about 7000 acres of RICH BOTTOM LAND, on the Great Kanahwa River, and on both sides thereof opposite and below the mouth of Potomac Creek, in the State of Virginia, 25 miles from Point Pleasant, (the county town of Moun county) and 12 miles from the county town of Kanahwa county, and adjoining the lands of the late General Washington. They were surveyed at the same time with those lands in the year 1772, and are held under the same titles, viz. Old Military Rights—which are unquestionable.

The Lands are of the very first quality, the Bottoms in many places a mile wide, they have been lately surveyed and divided into lots containing from 150 to 350 acres each, for the accommodation of purchasers, each lot fronting on the river, and extending back from thence to the hills, which afford a most extensive range for stock, which can never be interrupted. One hundred acres of the rich bottom, with its advantages, would make a good settlement. The great [Virginia] state road leading to the States of Ohio and Kentucky passes by and through these lands, which being on a fine navigable river will command a ready and high price for the produce to the emigrants to the western country both by land and water. Their situation, besides, gives their occupants choice of the eastern or western markets as produce may be found most profitable. The climate is mild and remarkably favorable to the production of fruit. Salt-works are erected on the banks of the river but a few miles above these lands, and the neighborhood furnishes abundance of iron, coal, limestone, mills and mill-seats; so that there is no part of the western country which holds out more advantages to persons desirous of emigrating.

A more particular description of these lands, with plots of the several lots, their situation, description and price, may be had by application in Alexandria, to Mr. WILLIAM CRAIK, who attended the surveying of them, or to the subscriber.

FOR SALE.

Five hundred acres of LAND, in the County of Alexandria, and five and a half miles from Alexandria and two from Georgetown, one moiety in Wood and part of that heavily timbered. It abounds in excellent water, and hath an extensive view of the neighborhood—from its proximity to the City, Georgetown and Alexandria, with the additional convenience of an abundance of wood, few farms within the District claim a pre-eminence. Upon the 1st Monday in October, I shall attend on the premises for the purpose of disposing of it, if not sold previous to that time. Should it be more accommodating to those (who wish a country residence during the sickly months,) I will divide it into ten and twenty acre LOTS. Any person wishing to view the Land, by an application to WILLIAM SNEDELL, who lives on it may be gratified. My remoteness and the frequent depredations on the Wood and Timber, are the principal inducements to sell it, not more than one-fifth of the purchase money will be required, and a credit from two to three years will be given for the residue, security by a mortgage, and a forfeiture of the advanced monies, with interest on the sum unpaid, if not punctually and fully discharged.

To Planters and Farmers.

The subscriber offers for sale, on a liberal credit, or for NEGROES,

Ten tracts of Land, of 1000 acres each, situate on the river Oucheta, and the Bay of Berthelink, in the county of Orleans, and territory of Orleans. The above land is part of the grant made to the Baron de Belpre by the Spanish government. It is situated above fifty miles from the Natchez, 250 miles from New Orleans, and 30 from the river Mississippi, and from 10 to 15 miles from the post of Oucheta. It is thought unnecessary to give more than a brief description of it, as any person wishing for more particular information may obtain it from any of the following named gentlemen.

The above land lies on waters navigable in all seasons for vessels of 40 tons burthen, is in the heart of a country fast settling from the Mississippi territory and Kentucky, and being but a few miles from the post riders it is contiguous to mills, stores, cotton gins, &c. It is scarcely necessary to say any thing of the quality of the soil, as the whole of that country is known to be the finest land in the world. It may not be improper to remark however, of these lands, that a about one-fifth being covered with timber, the rest is prairie, and nothing else is required to prepare it for a crop of cotton, indian corn, tobacco, hemp, or rice, (in the lowest part of the grounds) than merely ploughing it up.

The subscriber owns 3000 acres more, on which he would be glad of obtaining industrious settlers. Such settlers ought to have some negroes, and a plenty of children. To such he offers liberal encouragement, either by selling to them at a low price, or on a long credit of 5 or 6 years, or lease of 10 years. He would also furnish them with provisions on their arrival there.

For further particulars enquire of Thomas W. Griffiths and Thomas Chace, Esquires, at Baltimore; David P. Dewees, at Alexandria, Virginia; Dr. J. Scott, of Fredericksburgh; or of the subscriber at New Orleans, but at present in Philadelphia.
